

ANOTHER PAYLESS PAY DAY NEARING FOR PHILADELPHIA

City Employees Have Already Seen One Such: "Cupboard" is Bare

MANY PLANS UPSET

Suffering Planned to Be Caused by Alleged Payroll Padding

By E. L. Rawley

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—(INS)—The spirit of Christmas time is abroad in the land yet for the families of 25,000 city employees of staid old Philadelphia there is no joy. Today is just another day to these men and women and a payless one at that. For Philadelphia's treasury is as bare as the cupboard of Mother Hubbard recounted in rhyme and story.

One payless pay-day has already passed and another is nearing with still no money in sight. Already $1,325,000 is due these workers and before the dying year ends Philadelphia will be pined twice as deep in the rack of bankruptcy, it appeared today. The efforts of Philadelphia's grand old man of finance, E. T. Stotesbury, for the nonce have failed. Answering the frantic behest of worried city officials he walked through the grimy corridors of City Hall yesterday seeking means of alleviating the city's financial distress. His suggestion that local bankers buy $3,500,000 of preferred city bonds and sell them back to the city's sinking funds commission when the money is available the first of the new year was hailed as the solution of the city's ruined finances. The plan was received on every side as the answer to the pleadings of the workers for their pay. However, the scheme collapsed last night like an inflated balloon from the prick of a pin when the hard-boiled bankers refused to accept the project. The latter, already stumbling under millions of frozen assets and the burden of excessive taxes, refused to carry the burden of the additional millions of doubtful city paper.

Although the bonds carry pledges of 4 1/2% interest they have proven unsalable for the most part. First offered at 4 1/2%, then at 4 1/4% and finally at 4 1/8%, only a comparatively small amount of the $20,000,000 issue has been sold.

The only plan now seemingly left is the scheme first proposed and rejected and now proposed again to issue pay warrants to the employees for the amount due them with the city's promise to redeem them in cash at some future date. Again the bankers have turned thumbs down on this proposal and announced the scrips would not be accepted and cashed by the Philadelphia Clearing House and its members. A few of the city's large stores, however, are willing to receive the warrants at a percentage of their face value in payment for merchandise.

Approximately a week will pass before the work of printing, filling out and signing these warrants and then countersigning them as individual pay warrants can be completed. Possibly these unpaid workers will not receive their money until after Christmas.

Behind the tangled business and the suffering that it has brought about many claim is the padding of city payrolls with needless henchmen of political leaders. To raise the necessary sums going into the pockets of these political followers the tax rate was raised to $2.77 1/2 per hundred, and only a week ago a 3 1/2% cent increase making the rate $3.13 and a 50% rate boost was proposed for next year.

ORDERS REMOVAL OF RAILROAD RIVER PIER

War Department Tells P. R. R. to Raze Old Bridge
Abutment

A MENACE TO BOATS

The War Department has ordered the Pennsylvania Railroad to remove the central pier of the proposed right-line cut-off bridge across the Delaware River, two miles below Trenton.

The bridge has been the subject of controversy between the railroad's engineers and the War Department ever since the sub-structure was started in 1915, with the result that the super-structure was never begun. The order of the War Department calls for removal of the pier within six months, but it is understood, the railroad, anticipating the action, has already let bids to remove the heavy masonry and timber.

The partially-completed bridge had been intended as a cut-off for freight traffic to avoid increased congestion in Trenton. The proposed line would cross over the bridge at the end of Biles Island in the Delaware then cut across New Jersey, avoiding Trenton, and rejoin the Main Line to New York near Newark.

The removal order results from a hearing conducted in the Bourse Building, Philadelphia, on November 10th, before Colonel Earl I. Brown, District Engineer of the War Department.

Navigation interests were unanimous in condemning the central pier as a dangerous obstruction to larger vessels, which will use the river when the proposed 20-foot channel is dug as far up as the new Municipal Navigation Terminal in Trenton.

The project was originally started in 1912 with a proviso for its completion in three years. Since then several extensions have been granted and several new plans submitted but none has met with the full approval of the War Department, which insists on a clearance of 250 feet.

From the Battle Front

Here's one of the latest pictures to come to this country from war torn Manchuria. Though diplomats of the warring countries, Japan and China, insist that the trouble there is not serious it would seem that the unfortunates who provide the target for the gun mounted on the Japanese armored train shown above, would differ with them. This photo was made during the recent fighting in the Tatsihar area. The photo is now in the hands of the Japanese invaders.

NEWTOWN WILL NOT ERECT COMMUNITY CENTER

Donations Are to Be Returned to Contributors and Project Dropped

HARD TIMES A FACTOR

NEWTOWN, Dec. 17.—For some years the residents of this borough have had visions of a fine community gymnasium, the cost of which was to be raised by various means. A large number of the private residents of the borough gave liberally toward the erection of the recreation center, business houses contributed and a large amount of money was raised through benefit performances.

However, in spite of the fact that the contributions have been quite liberal, the erection of the gymnasium had to be postponed because of the lack of sufficient funds. Owing to the fact that the depression has been rather severe, persons interested in the construction of the gymnasium have been reluctant in making any effort in raising additional funds. As a result for a number of months nothing has been done.

Prospects do not seem to be much better and quite recently it was decided to hold a meeting to determine whether the trustees should proceed with the erection of the gymnasium or whether the idea should be abandoned and the money returned to the individuals and organizations contributing.

A meeting was held in the high school auditorium, when after some discussion, it was definitely decided to abandon the idea of erecting the gymnasium and to return the contributions to the private individuals, business houses and organizations.

The Newtown Community Recreation Association, which has been sponsoring this project, will continue as an organization and as the result of a number of benefit performances, given here, there remains in the treasury a sum of money. It was decided at last evening's meeting to appoint a committee to determine how this money shall be spent, it being the idea that it be spent in promoting some form of athletics.

Exchange Club Appeals for Support of Football Game

EXCELLENT OFFICIALS

Anyone who has followed football in the last 20 years, will know that the four officials who have been engaged to handle the Christmas charity game to be held on the high school grounds, are conversant with all the rules that govern the game, and in consequence, the contest on Christmas morning will be, so far as the rules are concerned, the best controlled game ever seen in Bristol.

The great surprise is that men of their high standing in sports could be induced to come to Bristol, and officiate in a local game. Their willingness to come should be greatly appreciated by all sports-loving citizens, and in return for their kindness they should be greeted by the largest crowd that ever assembled to witness a football game here.

Wilmer C. Crowell, the referee, is not only noted as an official of the highest class, but he enjoys the honor of holding the position of president of the Eastern Association of Inter-Collegiate Officials. It is certainly a compliment to the town to know that a man who occupies such a high position in sporting circles, is willing to contribute his time and services on a Christmas morning to referee a game for charity.

C. J. McCarty, Jr., who will umpire the game, is a member of the Board of Directors of the Eastern Association of Inter-Collegiate Officials, so it can be seen that Bristol will be significantly honored by having two very important officials to handle this charity game on Christmas morning.

R. F. Kinney of Trinity College, the field judge, and John Winters, of Bucknell University, the head linesman, are well known and most competent officials, and it is gratifying to know that these men will also come to Bristol, at their own expense.

The object of the game, raising funds for charity, is a most worthy one, and should appeal to everyone, whether he enjoys football or not, say the sponsors. When subscriptions are taken for a worthy object like this, many people hesitate to inscribe their names, because they cannot give as much as they would like. Here is an occasion where the small contribution is appreciated. Fifty tickets for a ticket or a dollar. If every person in Bristol who can afford it will buy a ticket, the 2,000 tickets will be sold, and $1,000 will be turned over to the charity committees.

If the citizens of Bristol could hear Walter F. Leedom, who is in charge of the charity work, and his assistant, Miss Nora Jones, the community nurse, recount their experiences in the work of distributing charity during these distressing times, there is no doubt that the response to this appeal would be generous and abundant.

Few towns, of its size, or even the larger cities, can boast of a plan of charity distribution that is systematic, like the one here. The central committee investigates all appeals for assistance, and also advises in the distribution of private charity. In this way, there is no overlapping, and every penny that is expended for charity goes to worthy individuals.

The Exchange Club which is sponsoring this charity game on Christmas morning, makes this appeal to the citizens of Bristol, and asks that everyone who can afford it, buy at least one ticket to help along this worthy cause.

THREE SUSPECTS ARE DETAINED IN HI-JACKING CASES

Trio Captured After Short
Chase Through South
Philadelphia

SEEK LAVINE TRUCK

Thorough Search Conducted of Main Highways and Back Roads

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17.—Three suspects in the series of hold-ups and hi-jackings which have occurred on the Lincoln Highway near Langhorne were held for questioning by local police today.

The trio was captured after a short chase through south Philadelphia streets during the night. They identified themselves as: Walter Summers, John Schinder and Julius Berg, all of this city.

The cargo of merchandise, valued at $30,000, aboard the truck of Lewis Lavine, Trenton, N. J., which was hi-jacked at Penn Valley early yesterday morning, has not been located.

Pennsylvania State Police and authorities of Bucks County have been making a thorough search for the goods which were taken by six armed bandits on the Lincoln Highway. It is the belief of officers that the truck as well as goods are being concealed in the vicinity of Philadelphia.

When the truck was hi-jacked yesterday morning, two employees of "Lavinette," both truck drivers, were "kidnapped" by the two men. Two of the highwaymen manned the truck with its precious cargo; while the other four took the two Lavine drivers to a point near Philadelphia city line, using a circuitous route.

Throughout yesterday, Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, and State policemen, together with the State Highway patrolmen from Langhorne barracks, conducted a search. Main highways and back roads were combed over, and buildings were included in the search.

About two weeks ago another Lavine truck was held up near the same spot. The authorities engaged in the present search recovered the loot after the truck was found abandoned on a back road, and arrested five men who are now awaiting trial in the Doylestown Prison.

Theodore Wisniewski, of 626 Lamberton street, Trenton, driver of the truck, and Daniel Nucco, of 116 Bridge street, Trenton, his helper, were proceeding toward Philadelphia at about 4:30 a. m. when six men in a black sedan ordered them to stop. Three hand-dits manned the truck while the others took Wisniewski and Nucco in their car, drove them to Torresdale, and tossed them out there. They notified Philadelphia police and word was flashed to the Morrisville State Police Barracks.

Corporal Stewart traced tire marks corresponding to those of the Lavine truck to Street Road, and found that they led back to the highway again. This leads authorities to believe that the truck and cargo were taken to Philadelphia.

C. Lewis Lavine, president of the cargo consisted of miscellaneous merchandise from about 600 shippers.

HE LIKES HIS PIPE

(By "The Stroller")

Preachers are human, just like a lot of other folks, despite impressions some have to the contrary. Take the Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton, pastor of the Bristol Presbyterian Church, for an illustration.

Did you ever see the Reverend when he has on his working clothes?

The clergyman has been doing some painting recently in the Manse and he sure does look like a regular painter.

Garbed in old trousers and with shirt open at the neck and hands dabbed with paint, the Rev. Knowlton completes the picture with a corn cob pipe held between his teeth.

"I like the old corncob," he says and judging from the way he puffs and pulls on it, we imagine he does.

HOME IMPROVEMENT TO BE ADVOCATED HERE

John H. Hardy Accepts The Presidency of Local Organization

TC FORM COMMITTEES

A "Better Homes in America Committee for Bristol" is being organized by John H. Hardy upon the invitation of James Ford, executive director of the "Better Homes in America" organization with headquarters in Washington, D. C. Mr. Hardy has been invited to accept the presidency of the local organization and he is now engaged in obtaining the co-operation of other representative citizens. President Hoover is the honorary chairman of the national organization.

The chief aim of the organization is to help all families, but especially those of modest income to a knowledge of the best ways of improving their homes. It also tends to promote a more sanitary and wholesome condition of homes and premises and the removal of influences in home and neighborhood life which interfere with the health and welfare of the growing child.

Over 8000 communities in the United States took part in the program last spring and have reported at length on the valuable results of this type of civic work in which the whole community is glad to co-operate.

The movement is described as being one to put knowledge of high standards in house building, home furnishings and equipment, and home life within the reach of all citizens.

To encourage thrift for home ownership, the building of sound, attractive, economical, single-family homes in which private home life may be possible, and to encourage the reconditioning and remodeling of old houses.

To encourage general study of the housing problem and of problems of family life, and to help each community to profit from such study.

To demonstrate each year the best types of house construction and architecture which are within the reach of families in moderate circumstances.

To encourage sensible and appropriate furnishing for the home and the elimination of needless burdens in housekeeping.

To encourage instruction in the public economies and wherever advisable the construction of school practice cottages through which the girls and women of the community may receive continuous instruction in the ways of improving home life and of making household activities easier.

To promote the improvement of house lots, yards and neighborhoods.

To extend knowledge of the ways and means of making home life more attractive and happier through the development of home music, home play, home art, and the home library, and to encourage special study and discussion of the problem of character building in the home.

TOMATO'S RISE

Consider the tomato.

Born of low estate, it was early suspected of poisonous possibilities and acquired a shady reputation as the "love apple." Scorned by society, it hardly knew the color of a table cloth.

But there came a time when cheap ingredients for soup were at a premium so somebody dumped a basket of tomatoes into the pot and found the flavor delicious. Its fortune was assured, and its place in polite society made.

Proud of its success as a self-made fruit, the tomato went along for years without much change in its fortunes and content with its niche in middle class circles, when some genius mixed its juice into a cocktail and found it delicious.

That was its passport into the "400"

of fruitland.

All this may be only the stuff of which vanity is made as far as the tomato is concerned, but to the tomato grower it is prosperity. His crop was big and his price high this year while other agriculturists were almost giving their products away.

Why doesn't man put his boasted ingenuity to work doing for cotton, wheat, corn and dairy products

what has been done for the once lowly Lycopersicon? A note could be accomplished in that direction than through farm boards, farm loans, equalization fees and debentures. What agriculture needs is more science and less politics.

TELEVISION

Three decades ago the then youngful Marconi voyaged to a cabin in far-off Newfoundland to attempt to receive radio waves broadcast from Italy. Most of the leading scientists and engineers of the world scoffed at the experiment, predicting failure for it. But they did not know what they were talking about and the young Italian inventor did. His waves came through the first radio waves ever to span the ocean and be heard.

After Marconi had conceived

the world that radio waves could be picked up thousands of miles away, the engineers said no practical use could be made of them. It was marvelous and all that left what good was it? Nobody thought of them, scarcely went about dreaming and figuring and experimenting, and today the radio covers the world. It seems to this generation quite as remarkable that radio has grown to such proportions in 30 years as it seemed impossible in 1901 to hear other voices thousands of miles away.

No, the wireless has not been silenced. They are now calling the world that television is an immaginal thing. It is called engineers and the rich, and can never enter the universal use radio does. This is a different thing, they will tell you, from the radio, the automobile, telephone and radio. And yet dollars to doughnuts, television sets will replace radio receivers in the majority of American homes before the end of the decade.

SYNOPSIS

Leaving Hawaii shortly after her father's death, young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith goes to San Francisco, where she meets and loves a handsome man named Tony. Fanchon is shocked to learn that Tony is a racketeer, implicated in a recent murder. She, too, is now wanted. Fanchon escapes in an airplane under the name of "Smith." Evelyn Howard, whom she had met on the boat coming from Hawaii, is aboard. Evelyn is enroute to New York to live with her aunt, the wealthy Mrs. Carstairs, whom she has never met. After Fanchon confides in Evelyn, the latter treats her coolly. The plane crashes and Fanchon is the only survivor. She decides to escape Tony and the past and start life anew by masquerading as Evelyn.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED by Will L. Lindhorst

A MYSTERIOUS RING TRICK

Two portiere rings and a stick are required for this trick. Place one ring in your pocket and show the other and the stick to your audience. Purposely drop the exposed ring to the floor, and as you stoop to pick it up, slip the other ring from your pocket onto the stick, concealing it under your left hand which holds the stick. Ask two persons to hold the stick, one at each end. Then strike the stick with your left hand ring in your right hand, at the same time withdrawing your left hand and spinning the concealed ring as you do. The impression created is that the ring with which you struck the stick has mysteriously passed through and is now spinning on the stick. The audience will be engaged in watching this operation and it will be easy for you to slip the other ring into your pocket.

That box of uniforms for the maid—just thought of it—
And the chauffeur's family—
Just discovered you haven't nearly enough bright red tapers—
Of course, there's no time to run down town for salted nuts—
And you meant to buy candied ginger for that ginger jar of Auntie's—
And a pretty cookie jar for your neighbor's Christmas helping of your favorite cookies—

Just Step on the Gas and Whisk Away to Your Store on the Old York Road

The primary reason for its being there among your beautiful hills, is that we may better serve our many customers in that territory.

Just as individuals experience greater joy at Christmas time—in doing, in giving, in helping—so does this Strawbridge & Clothier institution realize its greatest moments.
